CONNECTED & AUTOMATED VEHICLES IN PENNSYLVANIA:

Demonstrations & Public Policy Challenges

Thursday, September 29
12:00 pm - 1:20 pm
Hamburg Hall 1206
Lunch provided

This talk will discuss initiatives to demonstrate connected and automated vehicles in Pennsylvania. Pittsburgh remains a world-wide leader in such demonstrations with Carnegie Mellon's Traffic21 Institute activities, the City of Pittsburgh's p4 Initiative, the Uber Advanced Technologies Center, and new legislation for on-road autonomous vehicle demonstrations. Public policy challenges will also be discussed, including issues of technology transition, vehicle regulation and liability.

Speaker: Chris Hendrickson, Hamerschlag University Professor of Engineering Emeritus, Director of the Traffic 21 Institute at Carnegie Mellon University
